DEPARTMENT OF LABOR*Employment and Training Administration*Notice of a Change in Status of an Extended Benefit (EB) Period for Puerto Rico

This notice announces a change in benefit period eligibility under the EB Program for Puerto Rico.

Summary

The following change has occurred since the publication of the last notice regarding States' EB status:

- May 5, 1996—Puerto Rico triggered "on" EB. Puerto Rico's 13-week insured unemployment rate had been above the 6.0 percent threshold necessary to be trigger "on" to EB since the week of March 9, 1996. However, Section 203(b)(1)(B) of the Federal-State Extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 1970 specifies that no extended benefit period may begin for a State before the fourteenth week after the close of the States' most recent extended benefit period. Puerto Rico's previous extended benefit period ended February 3, 1996 and the fourteenth week following the end of that extended benefit period is the week beginning May 5, 1996.

Information for Claimants

The duration of benefits payable in the EB Program, and the terms and conditions on which they are payable, are governed by the Federal-State Extended Unemployment Compensation Act of 1970, as amended, and the operating instructions issued to the States by the U.S. Department of Labor. In the case of a State beginning an EB period, the State employment security agency will furnish a written notice of potential entitlement to each individual who has exhausted all rights to regular benefits and is potentially eligible for extended benefits (20 CFR 615.13(c)(1)).

Persons who believe they may be entitled to EB benefits, or who wish to inquire about their rights under the programs, should contact the nearest State employment service office or unemployment compensation claims office in their locality.

Signed at Washington, DC, on June 19, 1996.

Assistant Secretary of Labor for Employment and Training.
