

such transactions from sample data collected in subsequent years. The information obtained from the survey is critically needed for tracking international transactions in new, growing, and volatile categories of services. The data are necessary for compiling monthly estimates of U.S. international transactions in goods and services, the U.S. balance of payments, and the national income and product accounts. The data also will support U.S. trade policy initiatives, including trade negotiations.

To close gaps in existing coverage of international services transactions, the Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) is considering adding several categories of services not included in the previous (1991) BE-20 survey. Specifically, BEA is considering adding coverage of purchases (payments) and sales (receipts) of commissions by unaffiliated sales agents, purchases (but not sales) of financial services, and sales (but not purchases) of merchanting services. BEA is also considering adding a broad category for purchases and sales of "other" business, professional, and technical services; this category would likely cover language-translation services, security services, collection services, actuarial services, salvage services, certain waste cleanup services, and, possibly, other specified services.

II. Method of Collection

The survey will be sent to potential respondents in January 1997, and responses are due on March 31, 1997. All U.S. persons who, during 1996, had more than $500,000 of purchases from, or sales to, unaffiliated foreign persons in a covered service must report data. U.S. persons who receive a copy of the survey and who had purchases and sales transactions in a covered service with unaffiliated foreign persons of $500,000 or less may voluntarily report the data, or they must file an exemption claim.
