Proposed Projects

1. National Disease Surveillance Program—II. Disease Summaries (0920–0004)—Reinstatement—Surveillance of the incidence and distribution of disease has been an important function of the U.S. Public Health Service since 1878. Through the years, PHS/CDC has formulated practical methods of disease control through field investigations. The CDC surveillance program is based on the premise that diseases cannot be diagnosed, prevented or controlled until existing knowledge is expanded and new ideas developed and implemented. Over the years the mandate of CDC has broadened to include preventive health activities and the surveillance systems maintained have expanded. This surveillance program is authorized under the provisions of Section 301 of the Public Health Service Act.

Data on disease and preventable conditions are collected in accordance with jointly approved plans by CDC and the Council of State Territorial Health Epidemiologists. Changes in the surveillance program and in reporting methods are effected in the same manner. At the onset of this surveillance program in 1968, the CSTE and CDC decided on which diseases warranted surveillance. These diseases are reviewed and revised based on variations in the public health. Surveillance forms are distributed to the State and local health departments who voluntarily submit these reports to CDC on variable frequencies, either weekly or monthly. CDC then calculates and publishes weekly statistics via the MMWR, providing the states with timely aggregates of their submissions.

The following diseases/conditions are included in this program: Influenza virus, respiratory and enterovirus, arboviral encephalitis, rabies, salmonella, campylobacter, shigella, foodborne outbreaks, waterborne outbreaks, and enteric virus. This request is for extension of the data collection for three years with minor revisions. A new form has been added for Enteric Virus Surveillance to monitor national patterns in the epidemiology of rotavirus.

Increased use of electronic submission will reduce the burden during the next three years.

Respondents	No. of respondents	No. of responses/respondent	Avg. burden/response (in hrs.)	Total burden (in hrs.)

Dated: July 29, 1996.

Acting Associate Director for Policy Planning and Evaluation, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).
