

program activity for which he or she was admitted to the United States.

The request for reinstatement also is to include copies of all of the exchange visitor's Forms IAP-66 issued to date and a new complete Form IAP-66 which indicates the date to which reinstatement is sought (namely, the program end date.) If the Agency determines that reinstatement is warranted, Box 6 on the new Form IAP-66 will be stamped by the Agency to indicate that reinstatement has been granted, effective as of the date that the request for reinstatement was received by the Agency. The new Form IAP-66 (minus the yellow copy) will be returned to the Responsible Officer. If the Agency does not approve the request for reinstatement the time for which the application was under review will count toward unauthorized status.

For purposes of Section 212(a)(9)(B) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (as amended by Section 301(b) of IIRAIRA), if the Agency approves the reinstatement, the calculation of the period of time specified in paragraph (B) will be tolled as of the date the request for reinstatement is received by the Agency. The Agency will deal expeditiously with all applications, and it is expected that most can be handled on a pro forma basis.

There are certain issues that this statement of policy purposely does not address. For example, if an exchange visitor wilfully fails to maintain the health and accident insurance required under 22 CFR 514.14, that exchange visitor is in violation of the regulations and is subject to being terminated from the exchange visitor program. (22 CFR 514.14 (h) and (i)). An exchange visitor terminated from the exchange visitor program for wilful failure to maintain health and accident insurance is not eligible for reinstatement.

Nor are employment-related issues dealt with in this statement of policy. Any exchange visitor who engages in unauthorized employment is subject to termination by the sponsor. Existing regulations require the sponsor to ensure that the activity in which the exchange visitor is engaged is consistent with the category and activity listed on the exchange visitor's Form IAP-66 (22 CFR 514.10(e)(1); 514.40.) An exchange visitor who is terminated from participation in his or her exchange program for unauthorized employment is not eligible for reinstatement.

Thus, while an exchange visitor may be in violation of the Agency's regulations regarding insurance coverage or employment, such violations would not in and of themselves make the exchange visitor

"unlawfully present in the United States" within the meaning of IIRIRA. Those violations shall be dealt with under the existing Exchange Visitor Program regulations, and if the exchange visitor is terminated from the exchange program for such violations, he or she is ineligible for reinstatement.

The Agency anticipates that a Proposed Final Rule will be published in the Federal Register by July 1, 1997. Interested parties will have an opportunity to comment in writing on the proposed rule.

Dated: April 18, 1997.

Les Jin,

General Counsel.

Redress Provisions for Persons of Japanese Ancestry: Guidelines Under Ishida v. United States

AGENCY: Department of Justice.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Department of Justice ("Department") hereby adopts a change to the regulations governing redress provisions for persons of Japanese ancestry. This change will amend the standards of the Civil Liberties Act of 1988, which authorizes the Attorney General to identify, locate, and make payments of $20,000 to eligible persons of Japanese ancestry. This change will amend the Act's standards to make eligible those persons who were born outside the prohibited military zones on the West Coast after their parents "voluntarily" evacuated as a result of military proclamations issued pursuant to Executive Order 9066. This change will also make eligible for redress those persons who were born outside the prohibited military zones in the United States after their parents were released from internment camps and whose parents had resided in areas that became part of the prohibited military zones on the West Coast immediately prior to their internment. In practice, this amendment will make potentially eligible those persons who were born after their parents were evacuated, relocated, or interned by the United States Government, and who were legally excluded from their parents' original place of residence in the prohibited military zones on the West Coast.

EFFECTIVE DATE: May 27, 1997.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Civil Liberties Act of 1988, Pub. L. No. 100-383, 102 Stat. 903 (codified at 50 U.S.C. app. 1989b-4) ("the Act"), enacted into law the recommendations of the Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians established by Congress in 1980. See Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians Act, Pub. L. No. 96-317, 94 Stat. 964 (1980). This bipartisan commission was established: (1) to review the facts and circumstances surrounding Executive Order 9066, issued February 19, 1942 (E.O. 9066"), and the impact of that Executive Order on American citizens and permanent resident aliens of Japanese ancestry; (2) to review directives of United States military forces requiring the relocation and, in some cases, detention in internment camps of these American citizens and permanent resident aliens; and (3) to recommend appropriate remedies. The Commission submitted to Congress in June 1983 a unanimous report, Personal Justice Denied Part 2: Recommendations, which extensively reviewed the history and circumstances of the decisions to exclude, to remove, and then to detain Japanese-Americans and Japanese resident aliens from the West Coast, as well as the treatment of Aleuts during World War II. The final part of the Commission's report, Personal Justice Denied Part 2: Recommendations, concluded that these events were influenced by racial prejudice, war hysteria, and a failure of political leadership, and recommended remedial action to be taken by Congress and the President.

On August 10, 1988, President Ronald Reagan signed the Act into law. The purposes of the Act were to acknowledge and apologize for the fundamental injustice of the evacuation, relocation, and internment of Japanese-Americans and permanent resident aliens of Japanese ancestry, to make restitution, and to fund a public education program to prevent the recurrence of any similar event in the future.

Section 105 of the Act makes the Attorney General responsible for identifying, locating, and authorizing payment of redress to eligible individuals. 50 U.S.C. app. 1989b-4. The Attorney General delegated these responsibilities and duties assigned to her to the Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights, who, in keeping with precedent, has designated the Office of Redress Administration ("ORA") in the Civil Rights Division to carry out the responsibilities and duties mandated by the Act.

ORA is charged with identifying and locating persons who are eligible for redress under the Act. To date,
