

and climate. States may require water systems to submit a water conservation plan consistent with EPA's guidelines as a condition of receiving a loan from a State Drinking Water Loan Fund. The first part of the document introduces the guidelines and provides information to the States about their nature and possible use. The second part of the document provides three sets of water conservation plan guidelines—Basic, Intermediate, and Advanced—which correspond generally to system size. Each set of guidelines follows nine steps, with variations for some steps under the Basic, Intermediate, and Advanced Guidelines: Conservation Planning Goals, Water System Profile, Demand Forecasting, Planned Improvements and Additions, Water Conservation Measures, Benefits and Costs, Selection of Measures, Integrated Resource Options, and Implementation and Evaluation of Plan.

The draft document being made available today was developed by EPA in concert with a Subcommittee under the auspices of the Local Government Advisory Committee. Subcommittee membership includes State agencies, water utilities, environmental groups, and various industry and public interest groups.
