Background

The National Institute of Justice (NIJ), in collaboration with the Office of Justice Programs' Violence Against Women Office (VAWO), is soliciting proposals for a national evaluation of the Civil Legal Assistance Program. This solicitation is aimed at research to evaluate the effectiveness of the programs funded under the Civil Legal Assistance Program. The purpose of the Domestic Violence Victims' Civil Legal Assistance Discretionary Grant Program is to strengthen direct civil legal assistance available to domestic violence victims.

The purpose of a national evaluation is to provide feedback by (1) documenting the range of activities and programs supported by the FY98 and FY99 grants; (2) documenting programs funded by other sources of assistance, the gaps these programs fill, who they serve, and how VAWO funded programs fit into the larger funding picture in a jurisdiction; (3) assessing the accomplishments of grantees; (4) examining grantee planning and implementation efforts; (5) evaluating the adequacy of and need for special conditions imposed on grantees in order to preserve victim safety and confidentiality, while simultaneously enhancing the professional services offered by grantees; and (6) developing a strategy for documenting long-term effects.

One research project will be funded for up to $200,000 for up to 24 months. Additional funds may be made available for this evaluation in subsequent years.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:Authority

This action is authorized under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, §§ 201-03, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 3721-23 (1994).

Background

The National Institute of Justice (NIJ) requests proposals to conduct research and evaluation concerning the private operation of the Taft Correctional Institution. In particular, this study must address two primary topics of interest, cost and performance. It is therefore expected that the successful applicant will be strong in both cost comparison and program evaluation, which may suggest collaboration between researchers with complementary expertise in these areas. Of special interest is the development and testing of models explicating specifically how and why—and not just whether—privatization conveys advantages.

NIJ will convene an expert panel that will provide the research team selected with assessments of their proposed methodologies and analysis plans as well as their interim and final products. In addition, this research will be conducted in consultation with BOP and the private prison contractor. Specific details of this consultation will be determined at a later date.

NIJ will award one cooperative agreement for up to $675,000 with a period of performance of up to 40 months.

Interested organizations should call the National Criminal Justice Reference Service (NCJRS) at 1-800-851-3420 to obtain a copy of "Examination of Privatization in the Federal Bureau of Prisons" (refer to document no. Buckeye Incorporated Midland, Texas; Revised Determination on Reopening

On May 7, 1999, the Department, on its own motion, reopened its investigation for workers and former workers at the subject firm in Midland, Texas.

The initial petition filed with the Department on behalf of workers of Buckeye, Incorporated was denied on February 9, 1999, based on the finding that the workers in Midland, Texas provided transportation services and did not produce an article in accordance with the worker group eligibility requirements of criterion (3) of Section 222 of the Trade Act of 1974, as amended. The notice was published in the Federal Register on April 6, 1999 (64 FR 16752).

One of the petitioners requested administration reconsideration of the Department's negative determination applicable to workers of Buckeye, Incorporated. The petitioner did not present any new substantial information which would bear importantly on the Department's determination, and the application was dismissed on March 16, 1999. The dismissal notice was published in the Federal Register on March 30, 1999 (64 FR 15174).

The Department just recently received a copy of the petitioner's April 14, 1999 request for judicial review filed with the U.S. Court of International Trade (USCIT), Buckeye v. Herman, Court No. 99-04-00222, regarding the Department's denial of eligibility for workers of Buckeye, Incorporated, Midland, Texas to apply for TAA.

New information submitted to the USCIT by the Buckeye petitioner, which was not shared with the Department at the time of the petitioners request for administrative reconsideration, provides a description of the work performed by the drilling fluid technicians of the subject firm. Based on this new information the Department reopened the investigation.

New findings on reopening show that while the initial petition investigation found that workers of Buckeye, Incorporated, Midland, Texas, were preliminary truck drivers providing transport services, other workers were swamper (delivery assistants), as well as drilling fluid technicians that provided services for unaffiliated crude oil producers at the well sites. This new information shows that drilling fluid technicians are engaged in employment related to the production of crude oil for unaffiliated firms. Since the truck drivers and swamper are providing support services for the drilling fluid technicians of Buckeye, Incorporated, they can do also be considered providing support services related to the production workers of the subject firm.

Sales and employment at the subject firm declined from 1997 to 1998.

The investigation disclosed that customers of Buckeye, Incorporated, Midland, Texas, were major crude oil producers who market their oil through the normal distribution channels. Workers of firms engaged in employment related to the production of crude oil have been impacted by the high penetration of imports in this market. U.S. imports of crude oil increased absolutely and relative domestic shipments from 1996 to 1997 and in January-October 1998 compared with the same 1997 time period. The ratio of imports to domestic shipments for crude oil is over 100% from 1997 through October 1998.

Conclusion

After careful consideration of the new facts obtained on reopening, it is concluded that increased imports of articles like or directly competitive with crude oil contributed importantly to the decline in sales and to the total or partial separation of workers at the subject firm. In accordance with the provisions of the Trade Act of 1974, I make the following revised determinations on reopening:

All workers of Buckeye, Incorporated, Midland, Texas, who became totally or partially separated from employment on or after January 8, 1998, are eligible to apply for adjustment assistance under Section 223 of the Trade Act of 1974.

Signed at Washington, D.C. this 18th day of May 1999.

Grant D. Beale,

Acting Director, Office of Trade Adjustment Assistance.
