

778 of the IFR was covered by the currently valid OMB control number associated with the prior rule.)

Even if the IFR's collections of information were material or substantive, OSM's current renewal effort relative to 30 CFR Part 778 will cure any procedural or technical defects by affording the respondent pool with the same notice and opportunity to comment that would have been provided had OSM submitted the IFR to the PRA's notice and comment procedures; the notice and comment provisions for renewals are substantially identical to the provisions for collections for information contained in an interim final rule. 5 CFR 1320.10, 120.12. Furthermore, this renewal package reflects all changes in the IFR from the prior permit information rule, so the respondents will have a full and fair opportunity to comment on the collections of information embodied in the IFR. OSM believes that the collections of information contained in the IFR should in any case remain valid pending OMB's review of the approval package.

As required by the PRA, OSM will seek an additional 30-day comment period regarding this information collection activity upon OSM submission of this clearance request to OMB for review. All interested parties will have another opportunity in which to submit substantive comments on the following information collection activity:

Background

The final phase of this investigation is being scheduled as a result of an affirmative preliminary determination by the Department of Commerce that imports of DRAMs from Taiwan are being sold in the United States at less than fair value within the meaning of section 733 of the Act (19 U.S.C. 1673b). The investigation was requested in a petition filed on October 22, 1998, by Micron Technology, Inc., Boise, Idaho.

A party that filed a notice of appearance during the preliminary phase of the investigation need not file an additional notice of appearance during this final phase. The Secretary will maintain a public service list containing the names and addresses of all persons, or their representatives, who are parties to the investigation.
