Abstract: The Early Childhood Longitudinal Study—Birth Cohort 2000 (ECLS-B) is a component of the Early Childhood Longitudinal Studies Program. Studies also include the Kindergarten Class of 1998-1999, currently under way. The ECLS program responds to increased policy interest in a critical period in the development of children, the years from zero to three. The principal purposes of the study are to assess children's health status and their growth and development in a variety of key domains that are critical for later school readiness and academic achievement. The key domains include physical health and growth, motor development, and social and emotional maturation. The data set will provide a comprehensive and reliable longitudinal data set describing the growth of children from birth through first grade. The data can also be used by a wide range of federal agencies on topics such as maternal and child health; childhood illnesses and disabilities; nonparental child care and early childhood education; health intervention; family economics and composition; welfare dependency; cultural diversity; and food and nutrition.
