SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The FQPA, enacted on August 3, 1996, changed, among other things, the definitions of "food additive" and "pesticide chemical" in the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (the act) (section 201(s) and (q) respectively (21

U.S.C. 321(s) and (q)). These changes had a significant impact on the regulatory authority for many antimicrobial products that are used in food-contact applications. ARTCA, enacted on October 30, 1998, further amended the definition of a "pesticide chemical," under section 201(q) of the act, and the transitional provisions under section 408(j) of the act (21 U.S.C. 340a(j)). ARTCA, in part, transferred authority for certain food-contact antimicrobials from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) back to FDA.

FDA is announcing availability of a guidance document entitled "Antimicrobial Food Additives—Guidance" that is intended to clarify FDA's jurisdiction over antimicrobials, subsequent to the passage of FQPA and ARTCA, that are used in food, or that may become components of food as a result of their intended use. The food-related uses of antimicrobial products that have been specifically excluded from FDA's regulatory authority by ARTCA are also discussed. In addition, this document provides guidance on the meaning of certain terms that are important in delineating the jurisdiction of FDA and EPA.

II. Significance of Guidance

This guidance document represents the agency's current thinking on the agency's regulatory authority over certain antimicrobials used in or on food, or as food-contact substances. It does not create or confer any rights for or on any person and does not operate to bind FDA or the public. An alternative approach may be used if such approach satisfies the requirements of the applicable statute, regulations, or both.

The guidance document entitled "Antimicrobial Food Additives—Guidance" is a level 1 guidance under the agency's good guidance practices (62 FR 8961, February 27, 1997). Level 1 guidance documents are generally subject to public comment prior to finalizing. However, public comment prior to implementation of this guidance document is not required because there is a new statutory requirement that requires immediate implementation.

III. Comments

Interested persons may, at any time, submit to the Dockets Management Branch (address above) written comments regarding the guidance document. Two copies of any comments are to be submitted, except that individuals may submit one copy. Comments are to be identified with the docket number found in brackets in the heading of this document. The guidance document and received comments may be seen in the office above between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Such comments will be considered when determining whether to amend the guidance.

IV. Electronic Access

The guidance may also be accessed at the Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition home page on the World Wide Web at "http://www.fda.gov/cfsan".

Dated: July 15, 1999.

Title of Proposal: Forms for Large-Scale Computer Matching Income Verification.

OMB Control Number, if applicable: Not Available.

Description of the need for information and proposed use: A notice, published December 9, 1998 (63 FR 68129), describes the computer matching program applicable to this information collection requirement. HUD has recently transferred the responsibility for the computer matching income verification program described in that notice to its Real Estate Assessment Center.

REAC has developed the Tenant Assessment Subsystem (TASS) to identify potential sources of income discrepancies between income reported by tenants and submitted by Public Housing Agencies and owners and agents (POAs) with Federal tax data provided by the Internal Revenue Service and the Social Security Administration. The process of comparing these two sources of income information is referred to as computer matching income verification (CMIV). TASS will be used to identify potential income discrepancies for tenants receiving assistance under HUD's Public Housing (Low Rent), Section 8 Tenant-Based, and Section 8 Project-Based programs. Through the use of CMIV, TASS will:

- Identify potential income discrepancies;
- Generate letters to be sent to tenants identifying possible income discrepancies;
- Prepare notifications of possible tenant income discrepancies for POA processing and resolution; and
- Track POA discrepancy resolution and recovery of excessive rental assistance provided to tenants due to underreported income.

POAs will be required to resolve potential discrepancies through the identification of both positive and false positive discrepancies, and to adjust or terminate tenant rental assistance for verified discrepancies. Recovery involves a prudent attempt by POAs to obtain full repayment of excess tenant rental assistance through repayment agreements or prospective adjustments to future rental assistance.

The REAC has developed three forms to help capture and summarize data concerning POA income discrepancy resolution and recovery of excessive
