INTERNATIONAL TRADE COMMISSION

[Investigation No. 731-TA-364 (Review)]

Aspirin From Turkey

Determination

On the basis of the record¹ developed in the subject five-year review, the United States International Trade Commission determines, pursuant to section 751(c) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1675(c)) (the Act), that revocation of the antidumping duty order on aspirin from Turkey would be likely to lead to continuation or recurrence of material injury to an industry in the United States within a reasonably foreseeable time.²

Background

The Commission instituted this review on March 1, 1999 (64 FR 10012) and determined on June 3, 1999, that it would conduct an expedited review (64 FR 31608).

¹ Commissioner Crawford determined to impose a civil penalty in a different amount.

² The record is defined in sec. 207.2(f) of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (19 CFR 207.2(f)).

³ Commissioners Carol T. Crawford and Thelma J. Askey dissenting, determining that revocation of the antidumping duty order would not be likely to lead to continuation or recurrence of material injury to an industry in the United States within a reasonably foreseeable time.

The Commission transmitted its determination in this investigation to the Secretary of Commerce on July 29, 1999. The views of the Commission are contained in USITC Publication 3215 (July 1999), entitled Aspirin from Turkey: Investigation No. 731-TA-364 (Review).
