SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a draft document entitled "Financial Disclosure by Clinical Investigators." This draft guidance is intended to provide clarification concerning implementation of the final rule issued by FDA requiring anyone who submits a marketing application for any drug, biologic, or device to submit certain information concerning the compensation to, and financial interests of, any clinical investigator conducting clinical studies covered by the final rule. The requirements of the final rule took effect on February 2, 1999.

The agency's regulations on financial disclosure by clinical investigators require that financial interests and arrangements of clinical investigators that could affect the reliability of data submitted to FDA are identified and disclosed by the applicant. This requirement applies to any clinical study submitted in a marketing application that the applicant or FDA relies on to establish that the product is effective and any study in which a single investigator makes a significant contribution to the demonstration of safety. Applicants are required to certify to the absence of certain financial interests of clinical investigators or to disclose those financial interests. If the applicant does not include a certification and/or disclosure or does not certify that it was not possible to obtain the information, the agency may refuse to file the application.

The agency has received many questions concerning implementation of this final rule and has issued this draft guidance in the form of questions and answers in an effort to respond to these questions. FDA wishes to emphasize its commitment to work with sponsors as they begin their efforts to comply with the provisions of the rule.

II. Electronic Access

Copies of this guidance are available on the Internet. The guidance is located at www.fda.gov/oc/guidance/financialdis.html.
