SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

We are establishing a claims control and management system to maintain information about injured persons who have filed claims under the Cerro Grande Fire Assistance Act, Public Law 106-246. The Congress enacted the statute to compensate victims of the Cerro Grande fire that occurred in New Mexico in May 2000. On May 4, 2000, the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior initiated a prescribed burn at Bandelier National Monument in New Mexico. Within twenty-four hours, the prescribed burn grew out of control and turned quickly into a wildfire (also referred to as the Cerro Grande fire) consuming both Federal and non-Federal land. The fire caused evacuations in the Los Alamos, New Mexico area. Damage from the fire was extensive, resulting in the loss of Federal, State, local, tribal, and private property. The Secretary of the Interior and the National Park Service assumed responsibility for the fire and for the resulting property damage.

The Cerro Grande Fire Assistance Act provides for the expeditious consideration and settlement of claims for injuries suffered as a result of the fire. Under the statute, the Congress charged FEMA with establishing and administering the Office of Cerro Grande Fire Claims to handle claims from persons injured as a result of the fire.

This system of records will maintain information regarding claims filed by injured persons under the statute. It will consist of computerized files and paper records retrieved by name, address, and claim number.

Accordingly, we add FEMA/CGC-1, of the FEMA Privacy Act systems of records to read as follows:
