

October 2001 for 18 CKD disposal facilities operated by nine cement manufacturing companies in 10 States. EPA assessed these data for exceedances of groundwater maximum contaminant levels or health-based numbers. APCA's summary reports of groundwater monitoring data and EPA's analysis of the data are in the Docket to this NODA.

ADDRESSES: Supporting materials and comments on the 1999 proposed rule are available for viewing in the RCRA Information Center (RIC), located at Crystal Gateway I, First Floor, 1235 Jefferson Davis Highway, Arlington, VA. The Docket Identification Number is RCRA-1999-0011. The RIC is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, excluding federal holidays. To review docket materials, it is recommended that the public make an appointment by calling 703-603-9230. The public may copy a maximum of 100 pages from any regulatory docket at no charge. Additional copies cost $0.15/page.

Comment Period: The Agency is soliciting comments only on the new data provided by APCA regarding reduced disposal, more extensive groundwater monitoring, increased fugitive dust controls, and improved CKD management and state programs. EPA is not reopening the comment period on the Report to Congress on Cement Kiln Dust or the 1999 proposed rule. Public comments on the new APCA data will be accepted through September 23, 2002.

Comment Submissions: Those persons, companies or organizations intending to submit comments for the record must send an original and two copies to the following address: RCRA Docket Information Center (5305), U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, 1200 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, DC, 20460. Please place the docket number RCRA-1999-0011 on your comments.

Additional Information: As noted above, the 1999 proposal sought comment on a number of regulatory options for addressing the hazards associated with managing CKD. Among the options discussed, was the adoption of the management standards described in the proposed rule language (64 FR 45632) solely as RCRA Subtitle D requirements. As also noted above, we received numerous comments on the 1999 proposal from industry and States. The Agency has reviewed all comments on the proposed rule, including comments directed to the Subtitle D option. Based on our review of the comments, the Agency recognizes that even though detection of contaminants from CKD in groundwater, and fugitive dust emissions from CKD management units continue, improvements are occurring in cement manufacturing technology and processes that are resulting in an increase in CKD recycling back into the manufacturing process which translates to a decrease in waste CKD. We also recognize that there has been an increase in groundwater monitoring at CKD management units. We further recognize that additional States have regulatory programs that address CKD management and a number of other States are willing to develop or refine regulatory programs, but are reluctant to do so pending EPA's decision on the 1999 proposal.

In light of these developments, the Agency is now considering an approach whereby it would finalize the proposed option of issuing the CKD management standards as described in the August 20, 1999 proposal (64 CFR 45632), as a RCRA Subtitle D rule and would temporarily suspend its active consideration of the proposed mismanagement-based listing (but would not formally withdraw the proposed rule) for a period of three to five years. During this time, EPA would collect data to evaluate the effectiveness of CKD management practices and States' regulatory programs. This approach would create a federal baseline that states could use to develop appropriate regulatory programs and allow adequate time for implementation of more protective CKD management standards. If after its evaluation the Agency deems CKD management practices and State regulatory programs to be effective in protecting human health and the environment, the Agency would formally withdraw the Subtitle C portion of the 1999 proposal and would revisit the 1995 CKD regulatory determination. On the other hand, if the Agency deems CKD management practices and State regulatory programs to be ineffective after this period, the Agency would pursue regulation of mismanaged CKD under RCRA Subtitle C, as described in the 1999 proposal.

Additionally, the Agency has determined that additional risk analyses for CKD used as an agricultural soil amendment substitute is warranted. The Agency will perform these analyses and report the results in a subsequent NODA. If additional controls are needed for CKD used as an agricultural soil amendment substitute, the Agency will issue agricultural use requirements.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

Public Information Collection Approved by Office of Management and Budget

July 17, 2002.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has received Office of Management and Budget (OMB) approval for the following public information collections pursuant to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, Public Law 96-511. An agency may not conduct or sponsor a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid control number. Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, no person shall be subject to any penalty for failing to comply with a collection of information subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act (PRA) that does not display a valid control number. Questions concerning the OMB control numbers and expiration dates should be directed to Judith Boley Herman, Federal Communications Commission, (202) 418-0214.

Federal Communications Commission

OMB Control No.: 3060-0954.

Expiration Date: 07/31/05.

Title: Implementation of the 911 Act.

Form No.: N/A.

Respondents: Business, not-for-profit institutions, and State, local, or tribal Government Entities.

Responses: 800.

Estimated Time Per Response: 4.5 hours.

Total Annual Burden: 3,100 hours.

Total Annual Cost: 0.

Description: The burdens are all needed to ensure prompt and smooth transition to universal 911 emergency calling services.

OMB Control No.: 3060-0987.

Expiration Date: 06/30/05.

Title: 911 Callback Capability; Non-initialized Phones.

Form No.: N/A.

Respondents: Business, State, local, or tribal Government Entities.

Responses: 3,137.

Estimated Time Per Response: 1 to 3 hours.

Total Annual Burden: 4,885 hours.
