SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Codex was established in 1962 by two United Nations organizations, the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) and the World Health Organization (WHO). Codex is the major international organization for protecting the health and economic interests of consumers and encouraging fair international trade in food. Through adoption of food standards, codes of practice, and other guidelines developed by its committees, and by promoting their adoption and implementation by governments, Codex seeks to ensure that the world's food supply is sound, wholesome, free from adulteration, and correctly labeled. In the United States, USDA, FDA, and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) manage and carry out U.S. Codex activities.

Issues To Be Discussed at the Public Meeting

Report of the Evaluation of the Codex Alimentarius and other FAO and WHO Food Standards Work. An evaluation was commissioned by FAO and WHO and also designed to meet the request for a review by the Codex Alimentarius Commission. The evaluation team has completed its work and made over 40 recommendations regarding Codex policies and procedures, the expert committees, and capacity building efforts of FAO and WHO. These recommendations will be discussed at the public meeting and at the 25th (Extraordinary) Session of the Commission.

FAO/WHO Trust Fund. At its 24th Session, the Codex Alimentarius Commission agreed in principle to establish an FAO/WHO Trust Fund to support developing country participation in the Codex Commission and subsidiary body meetings. FAO and

WHO were to develop clear rules and procedures for the establishment and functioning of a trust fund for consideration by the Commission to ensure its complete transparency and avoidance of bias and influence, to report on its implementation and indicate envisioned sources of funding. These rules and procedures will be discussed at the public meeting and at the 25th (Extraordinary) Session of the Commission.

Public Meeting

At the January 31st public meeting, the agenda items will be described and discussed, and attendees will have the opportunity to pose questions and offer comments. Comments may be sent to the FSIS Docket Room (see ADDRESSES). Written comments should state that they relate to activities of the 25th (Extraordinary) Session of the Codex Alimentarius Commission.
