

when loaded at the vehicle normal load, slightly exceed 88 percent of the respective tires maximum load rating. Specifically, the vehicle's normal load exceeds 88 percent of the maximum load rating by approximately 6kg, which means that the normal load is 89.5 percent of the maximum load rating. The noncompliance resulted from a running change during the 1995 model year that added a three-speed automatic transmission that increased the curb weight by 15kg resulting in a front axle load increase of 12kg and a rear axle load increase of 3kg. FMVSS No. 110 requires that the vehicle's normal load on each tire must not be greater than the high speed performance test load, which is 88 percent of the maximum load rating as stated on the tire sidewall. Compliance with FMVSS No. 110, S4.2.2, was calculated, by MMNA, based on the original curb weight (without the three-speed transmission) at the vehicle normal load.

Noting that the noncompliance occurred with vehicles manufactured prior to August of 1995, NHTSA agrees that motor vehicle safety would not be adversely impacted since the original equipment tires fitted to the affected vehicles have more than likely been replaced with a larger tire size. This is because the original equipment P145/80R13 size tire is no longer being manufactured by most tire manufacturers and has been eliminated from the Tire and Rim Association Year Book after 1998 causing its availability to drop significantly. MMNA believes, and the agency agrees, that most consumers would have likely replaced their original equipment tires with P155/80R13 size tires, which have a high enough load carrying capacity to meet the requirements of FMVSS No. 110 when fitted to the affected vehicles.

NHTSA believes that the true measure of inconsequentiality to motor vehicle safety in this case is the effect of the noncompliance on the operational safety of vehicles on which these tires are mounted. The fact that most of these vehicles have been in operation for close to nine years and likely have worn out the original equipment tires leads the agency to believe that the original noncompliance has no effect on the performance of the subject vehicles today.

In consideration of the foregoing, NHTSA has decided that the applicant has met its burden of persuasion that the noncompliance is inconsequential to motor vehicle safety. Accordingly, its application is granted and the applicant is exempted from providing the notification of the noncompliance as required by 49 U.S.C. 30118, and from remediating the noncompliance, as required by 49 U.S.C. 30120.

General Description of Report: This information collection is mandatory. 12 U.S.C. 1828(c) (OCC, FDIC, and OTS), and 12 U.S.C. 1817(j), and 12 U.S.C. 1813(q) (Board). Except for select sensitive items, this information collection is not given confidential treatment. Small businesses, that is, small institutions, are affected.

Abstract: This submission covers a revision to the Agencies' Interagency Biographical and Financial Report. The biographical information is used to evaluate the competence, experience, character, and integrity of the persons proposed as organizers, senior executive officers, directors, or principal shareholders of depository institutions or their holding companies. The financial information is used to evaluate the financial ability of those persons. This form also is used to evaluate proposed acquisitions.

This submission also covers a revision to the Agencies' Interagency Notice of Change in Control. An individual, a group, or a company that proposes to acquire control of a depository institution or its holding company must submit prior notice of that intent to the appropriate Agency pursuant to the Change in Bank Control Act and the Agencies' applicable regulations.

The Agencies need the information from both of these forms to ensure that the proposed transactions are permissible under law and regulation and are consistent with safe and sound banking practices. For example, the Agencies are required to consider the financial and managerial resources and future earnings prospects of an institution and its acquirers, directors, and executive management. Accordingly, the Agencies use the information to evaluate specific individuals' qualifications. Individuals organizing, acquiring control of, or managing a financial institution must provide this information.

This submission also covers the OCC's Satisfaction Survey, and the Conversion and Capital sample application. The OCC sends a Satisfaction Survey to applicants after the processing of a filing asking for information about the process. The survey is voluntary, but information received enables the OCC to refine its application process. The Conversion and Capital sample document have been reformatted from a letter submission to a numbered question type of submission that will facilitate the OCC's development of an electronic submission.

This submission also covers the Board's Interagency Notice of Change in Director or Senior Executive Officer (FR 2081b), which is being extended without revision. The FR 2081b is used by an insured depository institution or its parent holding company(ies) to notify the appropriate regulatory agency of a proposed change in the board of directors or senior executive officer of such institution or holding company(ies). A notice of change is required if the depository institution is viewed to be in troubled condition by its primary federal regulatory agency. The requirement is applicable to a depository institution or its holding company that is not in compliance with all minimum capital requirements, is in troubled condition or, otherwise, is required by the Board to provide such notices.

Current Actions: The Agencies modified certain sections of the Interagency Biographical and Financial Report, especially section 5, to improve the Agencies' capacity to evaluate the character and integrity of a filer. The Agencies also amended the form to make it easier to understand the type and scope of information that must be provided. For example, the Agencies made each question in section 5 more descriptive to clarify for filers the circumstances under which further explanatory information should be provided with the Report.

In addition, the Agencies made changes to comply with Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act, which requires Federal departments and agencies, when developing and using electronic and information technology, to ensure that the relevant information and technology is accessible to individuals with disabilities. Specifically, the Agencies amended the report to improve the ability of the form to be read by screen reader software applications used by individuals with visual impairments.

The Agencies modified the Interagency Notice of Change in Control to gather relevant information to comply with Section 307(c) of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act (GLBA). This section of GLBA requires the appropriate Agency to consult with the appropriate state insurance regulator prior to making any determination relating to the affiliation of a depository institution with a company engaged in insurance activities. As a result, the Agencies propose to add an item to the Interagency Notice of Change in Control to collect information regarding the name of an affiliated insurance company, a description of its insurance activities, and the name of the state in which the company is domiciled or in which it has a resident license. Exception: The OTS requires a company filing for a change in control of a federal savings bank or savings and loan association to use the appropriate holding company application and therefore, it will not have any company filing this form.

The Agencies made technical corrections to the General Instructions for both forms to make them uniform with revisions to other recently issued interagency forms and to ensure consistency, where appropriate, with other forms the Agencies use. The Agencies also added definitions for certain essential terms to the General Instructions for the Interagency Biographical and Financial Report to make it easier for filers to determine whether a given request for information is applicable.

Further, the OCC is changing its "General Policies and Procedures" booklet of the Manual by adding questions to its Satisfaction Survey (survey). The OCC sends a survey to applicants after the processing of the filing is final. This survey, which is voluntary, provides the OCC with information that enables the agency to refine and improve its application process. The additional questions relate to the electronic submission of certain types of applications and the effectiveness of the electronic system. The OCC also is changing to the format of the conversion and capital applications that are part of the "Conversions" and "Capital and Dividends" booklets of the Manual. Previously the OCC used a letter format. The OCC is changing that format to an application type of filing so that it will be able to accept the submission electronically. The changes to these documents are not material and are technical in nature. These changes are an administrative adjustment, and do not change the requirements on national banks.

Comments: Comments submitted in response to this notice will be summarized in each Agency's request for OMB approval, and analyzed to determine the extent to which the collection should be modified. All comments will become a matter of public record.
