

number. Respondents also would report whether general-use prepaid cards are issued.

II. All Debit Card Transactions (including general-use prepaid card transactions): Respondents would report summary information for debit card (including general-use prepaid card) transaction volume and value; chargebacks to acquirers; costs of authorization, clearance, and settlement; payments and incentives paid by networks to issuers; costs for fraud prevention and data security; interchange fee revenue; fraudulent transactions; and fraud losses.

The Board specifically requests comment on the following:

a. Whether the guidance provided in the proposed survey is sufficient for issuers to report authorization, clearing, and settlement costs;

b. The usefulness of including a checklist of fraud prevention activities and, if so, which fraud prevention activities should be included in the checklist for the 2012 survey. If a checklist is provided in the survey, are the activities proposed in the draft survey (transaction monitoring, merchant blocking, data security, and PIN customization) the right categories or are other categories more meaningful? If a checklist is provided in the survey, the listed activities could be updated over time based on "other" activities reported.

c. The issuers' ability to allocate payments and incentives as specified and whether other major categories of payments and incentives should be included.

d. The issuers' ability to report the subset of customer service costs associated with customer inquiries regarding particular debit card transactions (as opposed to customer inquiries regarding the account, the debit card more generally, or credit cards/ATM cards).

III. All Single-Message (PIN) Debit Card Transactions (including general-use prepaid card transactions): Respondents would submit data for the same set of questions asked in Section II above, but specifically about single-message debit card programs, including general-use prepaid cards.

IV. All Dual-Message (Signature) Debit Card Transactions (including general-use prepaid card transactions): Respondents would submit data for the same set of questions asked in Section II above, but specifically about dual-message debit card programs, including general-use prepaid cards.

The payment card network survey (FR 3064b) would require payment card networks to submit information about debit card (including general-use prepaid card) transaction volume and value; interchange fees; other network fees; and incentives and discounts paid to acquirers, merchants, and issuers.¹³ The first reporting period would cover the calendar year 2011, collected as of December 31, 2011.

The network survey would comprise two sections:¹⁴

I. Respondent Information: Respondents would identify the network covered in the response and provide the contact person(s) name, section of the survey for which they are responsible, e-mail, and phone number. Respondents also would report whether the payment card network is a single-message (PIN) or dual-message (signature) network, whether the payment card network offers a tiered interchange fee rate schedule that differentiates between exempt issuers and non-exempt issuers, and the number of merchant locations that accept debit cards whose transactions can be processed by the payment card network.

II. Debit Card Transactions (including general-use prepaid card transactions): Respondents would report the volume and value of settled purchase transactions; as well as information related to card-present versus card-not-present transactions; general-use prepaid card versus non-general-use prepaid card transactions; general-use prepaid card transactions exempt from the interchange fee standards in Regulation II versus general-use prepaid card transactions that are not exempt; transactions processed for small issuers that are exempt from the interchange fee standards versus those processed for non-exempt issuers; pre- and post-effective date transactions processed for exempt and non-exempt debit card issuers; chargebacks and returns to merchants; the value of interchange fees; the value of network fees; and payments and incentives paid by networks to acquirers, merchants, and issuers.

The Board specifically requests comment on the following:

a. The payment card networks' ability to identify separately general-use prepaid card transactions from other debit card transactions.

b. Whether the networks can provide data for exempt and non-exempt issuers that compares information for three time periods: January 1 to June 30, 2011 (during which all transactions would be considered exempt); July 1 to September 30, 2011 (during which all transactions could be considered exempt, but some networks may begin to distinguish between exempt and non-exempt issuers, if such networks are offering a tiered interchange fee schedule); and October 1, 2011 to December 31, 2011 (during which all networks that provide a tiered interchange fee schedule would distinguish between exempt and non-exempt issuers).

The Board would make the payment card network survey available online by mid-January 2012 and would request that the survey be completed and submitted to the Board within 30 calendar days. The debit card issuer survey would be made available by mid-February 2012 and would request that the survey be completed and submitted to the Board within 60 calendar days.¹⁵

By order of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, September 12, 2011.

Jennifer J. Johnson,
Secretary of the Board.

Analysis of Agreement Containing Consent Order To Aid Public Comment

The Federal Trade Commission ("FTC" or "Commission") has accepted, subject to final approval, an agreement containing a consent order from Kobe Brown and Gregory W. Pearson, dba DERMAPPs ("respondents").

The proposed consent order ("proposed order") has been placed on the public record for thirty (30) days for receipt of comments by interested persons. Comments received during this period will become part of the public record. After thirty (30) days, the Commission will again review the agreement and the comments received, and will decide whether it should withdraw from the agreement and take appropriate action or make final the agreement's proposed order.

This matter involves the advertising of a mobile software application ("app") called AcneApp which respondents developed and sold in Apple's iTunes Store. Respondents claimed that AcneApp effectively treats acne. The instructions for this app directed consumers to hold the light-emitting display screen next to the area of skin to be treated for several minutes each day.

The Commission's complaint alleges that respondents violated Sections 5 and 12 of the FTC Act by claiming, without substantiation, that the app provided an effective treatment for acne. The complaint also alleges that the respondents falsely represented that a study published in the British Journal of Dermatology proves that blue and red light therapy, such as that provided by AcneApp, is an effective treatment for acne.

The proposed consent order contains provisions designed to prevent respondents from engaging in similar practices in the future. Part I of the order prohibits respondents from making any representation that AcneApp, or any other device, as defined by Section 15 of the FTC Act, provides effective treatment for acne, unless respondents have competent and reliable scientific evidence to substantiate that claim.

Part II of the order requires respondents to have competent and reliable scientific evidence before making any safety, performance, benefits, or efficacy claim about any device.

¹ In particular, the written request for confidential treatment that accompanies the comment must include the factual and legal basis for the request, and must identify the specific portions of the comment to be withheld from the public record. See FTC Rule 4.9(c), 16 CFR 4.9(c).

Part III of the order is a standard order provision relating to establishment claims, prohibiting the misrepresentation of any research, tests, or studies.

Part IV of the order requires respondents, within 15 days of the order, to pay the Commission $14,294.

The remaining parts of the proposed order are standard provisions regarding record-keeping, dissemination of the order to officers and employees, prior notification to the Commission of corporate changes, notification of new employment, filing compliance of reports, and sunset of the order.

The purpose of this analysis is to facilitate public comment on the proposed order, and it is not intended to constitute an official interpretation of the agreement and proposed order or to modify in any way their terms.

By direction of the Commission.

Donald S. Clark,
Secretary.
