II. Discussion

The NRC issues RISs to communicate with stakeholders on a broad range of matters. This may include communicating staff technical positions on matters that have not been communicated to, or, are not broadly understood by the nuclear industry.

The NRC staff has developed draft revised RIS 2014–XX, “Embedded Digital Devices in Safety-Related Systems,” to clarify the NRC’s technical position on existing regulatory requirements for the quality and reliability of safety-related equipment with embedded digital devices. Further, the purpose is to also raise awareness that there may be potential safety issues from a postulated common cause failure (CCF) if an undetected software error should occur in embedded digital devices located in multiple trains of redundant safety equipment in nuclear facilities.

This RIS is available electronically through the Agencywide Documents Access and Management System (ADAMS) Accession Number ML13338A769. This RIS is a revision of the original draft RIS 2013–XX, “Embedded Digital Devices in Safety-Related Systems, Systems Important to Safety, and Items Relied On For Safety,” (ADAMS Accession Number ML12248A065) issued for public comment May 20, 2013 and reflects adjustments made in response to the public comments received. A table of the public comments received on the original draft RIS with the NRC staff response is publically available electronically (ADAMS Accession Number ML13351A204).

Dated at Rockville, Maryland, this 22nd day of April 2014.

For the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

II. Discussion

Licenses to possess and use SNM are governed by part 70 of Title 10 of the Code of Federal Regulations (10 CFR). On December 7, 2012 (77 FR 73060), the NRC staff outlined its plans to revise NUREG–1520, Revision 1, “Standard Review Plan for the Review of a License Application for a Fuel Cycle Facility,” dated May 2010. The NRC staff received comments in response to the December 2012 notice. In this regard, on April 11, 2013, the NRC staff held a Category 2 public meeting which included a discussion of the outlined plan to revise NUREG–1520 and the comments received from the industry. At the April meeting, the NRC staff discussed a staff requirements memorandum (SRM) dated October 9, 2012 (SRM–SECY–120091), in which the Commission directed the NRC staff to request the American Nuclear Society (ANS) to develop an integrated safety analysis (ISA) standard that would improve the quality and completeness of ISAs. The SRM also directed the NRC staff to refrain from revising NUREG–1520 on ISA topics until after the ANS standard is issued. Accordingly, the NRC staff is not proposing to make any significant changes to SRP Chapter 3, “Integrated Safety Analysis and Integrated Safety Analysis Summary,” at this time. Changes to Chapter 3 are primarily to improve readability, rather than a change in guidance. A more complete summary of the April 11, 2013, meeting is available in ADAMS under Accession No. ML13113A251.

The draft of SRP Revision 2 clarifies the existing SRP discussion in several technical areas, including nuclear criticality safety and management measures, as summarized below. Draft Chapter 5, “Nuclear Criticality Safety,” contains an expanded discussion of the double contingency principle and double contingency protection, including a description of what constitutes a loss of double contingency. Draft Chapter 11, “Management Measures,” includes a discussion of graded management measures and the selection of items relied on for safety that relate to the application of graded management measures.

The draft of SRP Revision 2 contains two new chapters: Chapter 12, “Material Control and Accounting,” regarding 10 CFR part 74 requirements; and Chapter 13, “Physical Protection,” regarding 10 CFR part 73 requirements. These new chapters are needed because they address requirements that are referenced in 10 CFR 70.22, “Contents of applications.”

The draft of SRP Revision 2 includes administrative changes throughout the SRP to ensure consistency among the SRP chapters, improve clarity of the text, reduce redundancies, and assure that statutory, regulatory, and guidance document references are accurate and up to date. The title of this SRP was revised from “Standard Review Plan for the Review of a License Application for a Fuel Cycle Facility” to “Standard Review Plan for License Applications for Fuel Cycle Facilities.”

Dated at Rockville, Maryland, this 21st day of May 2014.

Director, Division of Fuel Cycle Safety and Safeguards, Office of Nuclear Material Safety and Safeguards.
