The ECOA also prescribes that creditors inform applicants of decisions made on credit applications. In particular, where creditors make adverse actions on credit applications or existing accounts, creditors must inform consumers as to why the adverse action was taken, such that credit applicants can challenge errors or learn how to become more creditworthy. Creditors must retain all application information for 25 months, including notices they sent and any information related to adverse actions.

Finally, the ECOA requires creditors who furnish applicant information to a consumer reporting agency to reflect participation of the applicant's spouse, if the spouse is permitted to use or contractually liable on the account.
