

eligibility systems or gathered by conducting additional case review surveys.

Based upon FNS' experience over the last two years, out of 53 State agencies this data collection impacts, FNS estimates only 10 States to submit major changes annually. The total estimated burden hours associated with the Major Change requirements since the final rule are being revised from 9,663.75 to 2,160. While the number of expected major changes States are expected to report annually is revised from 22.5 to 20, most of the decrease is based due to the initial overestimated need for additional reporting beyond the "automatic" provisions of the rule. The final rule estimated that 6.75 States would be required to gather and report additional data, while to date FNS has not required this of any State so the estimate has been revised to one (1) State annually will gather and report additional data to FNS. This correction accounts for a decrease in hours from 7,377 in the final rule to 896 in this notice.

Affected Public: State, Local and Tribal governments.

Estimated Number of Respondents: 10 States per year.

Estimated Number of Responses per Respondent: 5.

Estimated Total Annual Responses: 50.

Estimated Time per Response: 43.2 hours (average).

Estimated Total Annual Burden on Respondents: 2,160.

While FNS' experience has resulted in a change to the number of Major Changes FNS expects States to report annually and the number that will require additional reporting, there is no basis to change original estimates of time/staff needed by States to complete the required notification reports. Thus, with an estimated 10 States reporting one major change per year (based upon the last two years), the initial reporting and analysis aspect of the rulemaking would be 10 annual responses \times 40 hours per initial response per State = an estimated 400 burden hours per year.

In terms of State reporting after the initial notification, no additional reporting has been required beyond the automatic reporting requirements. Therefore, FNS is projecting that for nine of the ten major changes expected each year there would be no additional reporting burden beyond the automatic reporting. All 10 of the major changes estimated each year are expected to require some automated system reprogramming to generate the required automatic data reporting. At 48 hours per reprogramming effort, this would be 480 hours per year (10×48). Preparing the 40 quarterly reports are estimated to require 12 hours each. The total for the 10 States would be $480 + 480$ hours = 960 total hours for reporting (divided by the 10 states = 96 hours per State per year).

For the 1 State projected to require additional data collection, this requirement would be in addition to the 960 hours above. Such data will generally be collected through a sample of case reviews. While the required sample sizes may vary based on the type of major change and the proportion of the State's SNAP caseload it may affect, 200 cases per quarter would likely be an upper limit on what FNS could ask of a State. At an estimated one hour to review and report on a case, this would require 800 hours per year for one State each year. When the 400 hours for notifications and the 960 hours are added for the automatic information, the total for the 10 States is 2,160 (or 216 hours per State per year).

With all 10 States reporting quarterly, there would be 40 responses annually. One of the 40 reports would contain additional information from sample data.

Section	Requirement	States responding per year	Responses per respondent	Number of responses	Hours per response	Total burden hours

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Title: Generic Clearance for Survey Improvement Projects.

OMB Number: 0596-NEW.

Expiration Date of Approval: NEW.

Type of Request: NEW.

Abstract: The USDA Forest Service has broad responsibilities for caring for the forests and grasslands of the nation. In order to fulfill this mission, the Agency needs an accurate understanding of the range of views and preferences held by stakeholders regarding the management and conservation of forests and other natural resources. We do so through various information collections of social and economic data. The Forest Service requests approval from the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for this generic clearance to allow the Forest Service to rigorously develop, test, and evaluate its survey instruments and other data collection instruments.

The Forest Service has instituted state-of-the art techniques to improve the quality and timeliness of surveys and related data collection and analyses, while simultaneously reducing respondents' workload and burden. The purpose of this generic clearance is to allow the Forest Service to evaluate, adopt, and use these state-of-the-art techniques to improve its current data collections on forest and natural land management. This clearance will also be used to aid in the development of new surveys and data collection methods. Additionally, the Forest Service anticipates the benefit of increased response rates through improved survey design, a goal tied directly to improving response rates and reducing non-response bias.

Estimate of Annual Burden on Respondents: 900 hours per year (2,700 hours for the 3 year period).

Type of Respondents: Individuals and households, state & local government representatives, tribal representatives, private sector businesses, and non-profit organizations.

Estimated Annual Number of Respondents: 2,500 per year.

Estimated Annual Number of Responses per Respondent: 1 response/respondent.

purposes and the proper performance of the functions of the Agency, including whether the information will have practical or scientific utility; (2) the accuracy of the Agency's estimate of the burden of the collection of information, including the validity of the methodology and assumptions used; (3) ways to enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected; and (4) ways to minimize the burden of the collection of information on respondents, including the use of automated, electronic, mechanical, or other technological collection techniques or other forms of information technology. The Forest Service will consider the comments received and amend the information collection request as appropriate. The final information collection request package will then be submitted to OMB for review and approval.
